Opening Session – Wednesday, 1:00 to 2:45 p.m.

JUVENILE DETENTION ALTERNATIVES INITIATIVE:

Panel of five site coordinators provide an update on this project

Clinton Lacey (Panel Facilitator)

Panelists:

Dane Bolin (Calcasieu)

Ashley DeMouy (Orleans)

Roy Juncker Jr. (Jefferson)

Deron Patin (EBR)

Steve Snow (Caddo)

Representatives from Caddo, Calcasieu, East Baton Rouge, Jefferson and Orleans parishes provide an overview of the Juvenile Detention Alternatives Initiative in Louisiana. In the past year, these have been actively working to implement JDAI detention reform strategies. The five initial cohort parishes embarked on JDAI to reform their juvenile justice systems to better the outcome for our youth. This session provides an overview of the JDAI strategies to safely reduce reliance on secure detention. The session highlights local efforts wherein parish officials of the initial JDAI cohort sites describe the urgency for and establishing the foundation for change, challenges, as well as describe strategies and the results of their detention reform efforts.

Working to Build a Stronger and Smarter Juvenile Justice System

Shay Bilchik

Shay Bilchik, former head of the U.S. Justice Department's Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention (OJJDP), is founder and director of the Center for Juvenile Justice Reform at Georgetown University's Public Policy Institute. His "Headliner" luncheon address explores current efforts toward reform of the juvenile justice system and suggests future directions. He makes the case for a continuum of care and services from early prevention programs to interventions for serious and chronic offenders. "Moving in this direction will be framed along the developmental and systemic arc that our children and youth follow as they grow into adults," he says. "Policies and practices that hold promise for achieving better outcomes for our young people are highlighted." Bilchik advances the position that it is "only if we work effectively across systems of care, supported by a strong workforce, that we will have in place the stronger and more effective juvenile justice system and the better outcomes that we desire."
